BancorpSouth Recognized By National Campaign Promoting Savings

BancorpSouth one of 16 banks recognized nationally

TUPELO, Miss., June 15, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- BancorpSouth was recently recognized with the 2017 America Saves Designation of Savings Excellence for its extraordinary efforts during America Saves Week/Military Saves Week. The award is presented each year to financial institutions that succeed in getting people to open and add to wealth-building accounts.

"This was our most competitive year so far, with institutions engaging in creative ways and offering savings incentives," said Allie Vered, America Saves Director. "A lot of people don't believe they can find the money to save. But saving is not an amount, it's an activity. Convincing consumers to pay themselves first, to hang on to dollars instead of spending, and to take a pledge to achieve a goal go a long way toward helping them develop savings habits. We recognize BancorpSouth for their efforts to educate and inspire."

Dan Rollins, BancorpSouth Chairman and CEO said, "This is the third consecutive year BancorpSouth has received this prestigious recognition. As one of only 16 banks nationally to receive this designation, out of over 5,800

FDIC insured institutions, our teammates continue to be committed to delivering savings-related financial education programs and providing our customers with ways to start or increase their savings."

Just two in five American households report making good or excellent savings progress. America Saves Week is an annual opportunity for people to assess and address their savings status and for organizations like banks or credit unions to support good savings behavior. America Saves Week is coordinated each year by America Saves and the American Savings Education Council.
